

The Costa Rica Stock Exchange promotes the green bonds in Latin-American region in the PreCOP 25

During this important event, the Costa Rica Stock Exchange (BNV) talked about the potential for sustainable financing. The BNV has promoted projects financed through the Green Bonds.

October 2019. The Costa Rica Stock Exchange (BNV) CEO, José Rafael Brenes was invited as a panelist, to the PreCOP25, event that took place from Tuesday to Thursday in our country.

The panel named as “The Climate finance Challenge: Generation and Strengthening of Supply and Demand Capacities. Green Bonds: A Key Ally to Climate Change Action” talked about the challenges of climate finance and will seek to explain how the Green Bonds work as a key ally in tackling climate change and as a source of financing for the company that uses them.

Panel en el que participó el director de la Bolsa Nacional de Valores, exponiendo los bonos verdes.

The panelists who attended to the event were Jessica Jacob, Latin America and the Caribbean Country Dialogue Specialist at Green Climate Fund (GFC), Carlos Ruiz-Garvia, Coordinator RCC Panamá and the Executive of Environment and Climate Change at CAF, Cecilia Guerra.

According José Rafael Brenes, the fact that Costa Rica host the PreCOP25 is truly important because it shows our country as a worldwide environment promoter. “We are aware of the need to unite efforts to counter climate change, for the BNV it is of utmost importance that as a country, and even as a region, we can create the necessary conditions to promote the financing of sustainable projects.”.

BNV has joined efforts to promote a model of economic development with an integrated approach in which the environments is valued and cared for. Last year BNV launched its Green Bonds Project, it finances initiatives with specific environmental benefits that must help to mitigate and adaptive to climate change.

The Stock Exchange has broadened its vision in line with international best practices, and will be promoting Social Bonds that will finance projects that impact social problems for a given population and Sustainable Bonds for ideas with social and environmental benefits as a whole.

PRECOP25

PRE COP 25 is a preparatory meeting for the Conference of Parties (COP) of the United Nations Climate Change Convention (UNCCC). It is originally organized by the incoming Chair of the COP, which corresponds to Chile this year; but 2019 will be different because Costa Rica and Chile agreed to organize these two meetings in collaboration.

Chile will host the COP on December
